

International Geneva should become a hub of hubs

Interview of Raymond Loretan, President of the Diplomatic Club of Geneva by Kasmira Jefford, Editor-in-Chief of Geneva Solutions.

“Fifty years after a group of young diplomats founded the Geneva Diplomatic Club as a space to network and put formalities aside, its president Raymond Loretan says the club continues to provide an important forum for dialogue and exchange of ideas, including on rebooting international Geneva.

Where do diplomats and representatives of international Geneva go to meet and cultivate contacts outside of the Palais des Nations? It’s not always a fixed location, but a community that creates a sense of place.”
